5 THE COURT: Good afternoon. If I could hear announcements
6 from counsel starting with the plaintiff.

7 MR. STEIN: Good afternoon, Your Honor. David Stein from 8 Brown Rudnick for the plaintiff.

9 THE COURT: Good afternoon.

10 MS. HARTMAN: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Sarah Hartman
11 from Brown Rudnick for the plaintiff.

12 MR. ROUSSEAU: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Timothy 13 Rousseau also from Brown Rudnick on behalf of the plaintiff.

14 THE COURT: Okay. Anyone else for plaintiff?

15 MR. MORT: Yeah. This is Ray Mort. I'm also on the line.

16 THE COURT: Hello, Mr. Mort.

17 MR. MORT: How are you doing?

18 THE COURT: I'm well. Thanks.

19 And for defendant?

20 MR. FRANZINGER: This is Mike Franzinger from Sidley
21 Austin on behalf of Defendant HP Enterprise.

22 THE COURT: Good afternoon to you, sir.

23 Anyone else going to be speaking?

24 MR. SHELTON: Not speaking, Your Honor, but Barry Shelton
25 is on as well for HP.

1 THE COURT: Very good. Okay. What is it that we need to 2 take up? I'll start with the plaintiff.

3 MS. HARTMAN: Your Honor, this is Sarah Hartman speaking.

4 We had a couple of issues that we've outlined in our 5 report that we just wanted to discuss today, and the first is 6 that defendant has asked for some pre-Markman discovery and we 7 have -- as we've stated in here, we disagree that any such 8 discovery is necessary. They really haven't articulated what 9 they need, including what they would need in an 10 international -- from international discovery or what they need 11 it for. So we do think it's premature and should be stayed 12 until factual discovery opens.

13 THE COURT: Okay. And in response?

14 MR. FRANZINGER: Your Honor, HPE expects to raise a 15 jurisdictional issue of standing, and the public assignment 16 records seem to indicate at least that the plaintiff lacks the 17 right to sue for past damages. Also the assignment records 18 mention things like encumbrances and retained rights that the 19 assignments are subject to. They don't necessarily specify 20 what those are in the public documents. So we think these 21 limit -- at least limit the plaintiff's standing here and we 22 need some discovery, some of which may be international, to 23 explore these issues and get the facts. And the reason that 24 some of it may be international is that these patents have 25 variously passed through owners based in France, Finland and/or

1 Canada, and so we propose to get this discovery started
2 pre-Markman.

3 THE COURT: Does the standing issue go only to the 4 potential for back damages, or does it go to the ability of the 5 plaintiffs to bring the suit at all?

6 MR. FRANZINGER: It really depends on what the encumbrance 7 is and retained rights are as to the latter part of that 8 question. So what we can see from the public documents is that 9 it would at least go to past damages. There may be more in the 10 documents that aren't public.

11 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I'd like you to give me a -- and 12 I'm probably going to allow the efforts to be made 13 internationally, but if you have some better good faith reason
14 to believe that you need these for standing sooner than when I 15 would ordinarily open up discovery, I'd like to hear it now.

16 MR. FRANZINGER: The basis is just that the issue is 17 jurisdictional and may be dispositive of the case on the basis 18 that standing is always an issue jurisdictional.

19 THE COURT: Well, sure, but I'm saying, do you have any 20 reason -- do you have any evidence to believe that standing to 21 bring the suit is an issue or not? Do you have any good faith 22 reason that you would be able to raise that now?

23 MR. FRANZINGER: The reasons would simply be as stated, 24 that the assignment records do mention that the assignments are 25 subject to encumbrances and retained rights by prior owners,

1 and we need the discovery to explore whether those issues 2 prevent the plaintiff from having standing to bring suit at 3 all.

4 THE COURT: Okay. And response from the plaintiff,
5 please?

6 MS. HARTMAN: Your Honor, this is Sarah Hartman again.

7 We believe that we've had conversations and shown 8 documents and the assignments to HPE enough to show them that 9 this is -- the case is probably broad and that there's no 10 jurisdictional standing issue. We also just don't see still 11 how -- what exact international discovery they intend to seek 12 to explore that further. They just haven't been able to 13 articulate that.

14 THE COURT: Well, okay. So I am typically completely okay 15 with either side beginning the process now of obtaining 16 international discovery because I know how long that takes.
17 But I can't really tell -- I'll tell you what I'm hearing is 18 that the defendant feels that there is discovery that needs to 19 be taken and the plaintiff is telling me they're unsure exactly 20 what that international discovery is.

21 So let me ask counsel for HP, have you specified to the 22 plaintiff exactly what discovery it is you would seek to take 23 if I allowed you to do it right now that was international?

24 MR. FRANZINGER: Your Honor, what we've described is at 25 least we want to get into the documents that relate to these

1 transfers of rights from one prior owner to another. In many 2 instances these are not the direct transfer from the most 3 recent owner to the plaintiff here but an earlier transfer of 4 rights before that between one or more of the foreign entities
5 in the countries that I mentioned. And the rights that are 6 transferred to the plaintiff can be no greater than the rights 7 that were transferred to the prior owner, and so that's where 8 we want to get documents that we think reflect agreements 9 regarding those transfers that we believe could show the issues 10 that we're attempting to show here.

11 THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to start off by doing this, 12 but this may not accomplish global peace. It sounds to me like 13 the defendant has not quite yet articulated specifically to the 14 plaintiff what it is that they are seeking. I understand the 15 bucket that you're seeking, but I'm not sure that you have 16 provided to the plaintiff the exact documents that you're 17 seeking. It seems to me, first, that if the plaintiff has any 18 document -- let me try -- start -- go about it like this.

19 First, if the plaintiff has any documents that go -- that 20 trace back the assignments or transfer or anything that would 21 be related to standing in this case, if the plaintiff has those 22 in its possession -- and by standing I mean something that 23 would affect my jurisdiction to handle the case at all, not 24 just with regard to damages but jurisdiction, then I want the 25 plaintiff to produce those documents now because if they're in

1 the plaintiff's possession, jurisdiction is obviously the first 2 thing I should take up. If -- but what I'm going to do is 3 this. Generally speaking, I am okay with either party taking 4 international discovery because it takes awhile to get that 5 done and I want it to be gotten done. I'll -- and HP counsel 6 send to the plaintiff the specific discovery that you want to 7 send out to international targets. I'll allow the plaintiffs, 8 once they receive that specific discovery that HP would like to 9 send, if you have some reason to believe it's not discovery 10 that would go towards the jurisdictional standing -- your 11 jurisdictional standing to bring this case in my court or in 12 the United States, then let my clerks know and we can take up 13 any specific issue with respect to that topic. Otherwise, I am 14 okay with HP moving forward and sending out discovery that will 15 get the process started of obtaining these documents as soon as 16 they can.

17 Let me start with HP's counsel. Is that a good first 18 step, or is there something more you think I ought to do now 19 that would help you?

20 MR. FRANZINGER: Your Honor, I think that's a good step to 21 go forward at this point.

22 THE COURT: And counsel for plaintiff?

23 MR. SHELTON: Your Honor, I'm sorry to interrupt you.
24 This is Barry Shelton.

25 If I could just add one more note here. I just wanted to

1 remind Your Honor that in the other WSOU cases that are handled
2 by a different law firm by the Etheridge Law Firm, Your Honor 3 has granted blanket pre-approval for foreign discovery as long 4 as that discovery was not received before the date of the 5 Markman hearing, and I understand Your Honor's ruling and that 6 makes perfect sense, but I just wanted to remind the Court
7 that in the other cases that there have already been, you know, 8 a large number of letters of request that have been approved by 9 the Court.

10 THE COURT: All right. Well, here's what I'm trying to 11 accomplish, and I would like you all to do the best you can to 12 help me accomplish this. I am sympathetic on the one hand to 13 HP getting this process started in a way that will get them -- 14 will ensure that they have -- they have this information. I am 15 also sympathetic to my general standing rule that I don't allow 16 discovery prior to the Markman. So I am -- Mr. Shelton, I'm 17 happy for you to be involved in tailoring an agreement that's 18 similar to the other cases or any method you all want to where 19 you can come up by agreement with something that accomplishes
20 those dual objectives on my part. I don't really care what you 21 all work out. I do want HP to be able to begin the process now 22 with international third parties, but I don't want actual 23 discovery to take place until the Markman. So if you all think 24 you can, with those parameters, work this out, great. Try. If 25 you can't and there's some specific issue I can take up with

1 you, I'll do that whenever you call back.

2 Does that -- again let me start over. Does that work for 3 HP?

4 MR. FRANZINGER: Yes. That works, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: And for plaintiff?

6 MS. HARTMAN: Yes, Your Honor. Thank you. That works for 7 us.

8 THE COURT: Okay. Any other issues we need to take up?

9 MR. ROUSSEAU: Your Honor, this is Timothy Rousseau on 10 behalf of plaintiff. So there was one other disputed issue
11 that we wanted to raise, and that has to do with discovery 12 limits.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MR. ROUSSEAU: HP has requested that all seven cases be 15 tried within the number of discovery requests that the Court 16 usually allocates to a single case, and we believe that that 17 would be overly narrow. These are seven separate cases on 18 seven separate unrelated patents, and we believe that limiting 19 discovery to the amount of requests typically reserved for a 20 single case would be overly limited. In the interest of some 21 efficiency, WSOU has proposed a similar scheme that was agreed 22 to between the parties in the WSOU v. Huawei case in which 23 there are some number of common requests and some number of 24 case specific requests. We believe that a situation like that 25 would be more appropriate.

1 THE COURT: That at a macro level makes sense to me that 2 there will be common questions and then there will be 3 individual questions related to each of the -- I'm assuming -- 4 I think I've talked to Josh about this, but essentially 5 whatever number of cases you have against HP that each one has 6 a single patent; is that correct?

7 MR. ROUSSEAU: That is exactly right, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Okay. So essentially what you're suggesting I 9 do is if there are -- there would be a number of common 10 interrogatories, I guess, but then there would be specific 11 interrogatories or requests for production that you'd want to 12 ask that would deal with each of the individual
13 interrogatory -- individual patents. I don't have a problem 14 with that. Let me hear from HP.

15 MR. FRANZINGER: Your Honor, we've given this issue more 16 consideration and we're willing to agree to the discovery 17 limits that the plaintiff proposed.

18 THE COURT: Okay. And let me tell you all how I tend to 19 handle things like this or like the number of hours for experts
20 or, you know, all the other stuff. I'm blessed in this job 21 because I have really good lawyers 98 percent of the time or 22 higher on both sides. And so if either side comes to me and 23 says, we messed up when we agreed that we would have X number 24 of interrogatories, that was too few, we need three or four, or 25 whatever it is, more and let us explain to you why, you can

1 expect I'm going to grant that. If someone -- if you all 2 agree -- and I'm just picking a number. You shouldn't take any 3 meaning out of this, but if you agree that the number of hours 4 for expert deposition is going to be limited to 70 hours, just 5 to pick a random number, and someone gets to 69 and can show me
6 that the depositions they've taken were all of 30(b)(6) people 7 and relevant witnesses and they need more time, you should 8 anticipate I'm going to give more time. So -- and that's 9 bilateral. That's not for one side or the other. So do the 10 best you can to come up with these type of agreements and to 11 live up to them, but understand that as long as someone can 12 come in and show that they acted in good faith in trying to 13 adhere to these limits and they need some increase in them for 14 some specific reason to either on the plaintiff's side prepare 15 to prosecute its case or the defense side to defend the case, 16 you should anticipate I'm usually pretty receptive to that. So 17 I'm happy that you all have agreed. And is there anything else 18 that we need to take up? I'll start with the plaintiff.

19 MR. ROUSSEAU: Your Honor, those were the only disputed 20 issues.

21 THE COURT: Okay. And for HP?

22 MR. FRANZINGER: Your Honor, this is -- this is not a 23 disputed issue. This is an area of agreement, but we wanted to 24 get the Court's view on it. For the purpose of venue transfer 25 motions, we anticipate there's going to be a common factual

1 basis across some of the cases and we expect that we could 2 consolidate the seven to somewhere between one and three 3 motions that would cover all of them, and we just wanted to see 4 if the Court would prefer that we do it that way to avoid 5 duplication. We're also willing to file duplicate ones in 6 different cases if the Court prefers that.

7 THE COURT: I would much prefer you not duplicate it.
8 That would make me much happier.

9 MR. FRANZINGER: Good. Great.

10 THE COURT: And however -- and you may have seen recently 11 I made a change to my general standing rules that the 12 plaintiff -- if a defendant files a motion to transfer, the 13 plaintiff essentially has unlimited discovery to prepare for 14 their response to a motion to transfer which doesn't really 15 affect what your issue was. I just wanted to make sure 16 everyone was aware of that recent change.

17 MR. FRANZINGER: Yes, Your Honor. And also on the subject
18 of timing, with the period for filing going over Thanksgiving, 19 it's impairing the fact gathering process a little bit, but our 20 opposing counsel has graciously agreed to a two week extension 21 to the deadlines. So the parties plan to put that in our 22 agreed upon proposed schedule that we'll hopefully have for 23 you.

24 THE COURT: Well, they were probably aware I'm usually 25 really a difficult person to live with and get those agreements

1 from. So you're probably lucky that they went so easy on you 2 because I -- I'm usually pretty strict about that kind of 3 stuff.

4 At any rate -- I was kidding. Occasionally people don't 5 know if I'm kidding or not.

6 I think that's great. I think it's great that you all 7 worked this out.

8 And so is there anything else we need to take up for HP?

9 MR. FRANZINGER: No, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I hope you all have a wonderful 11 week and a wonderful Thanksgiving and I hope I get to see some 12 or all of you in real life sometime before the end of 2021, 13 which I'm not sure about anymore. So you all have a wonderful 14 week with your family. Take care. Bye.
